Adler, '37, will speak about her work as a consultant to the Communications Disorders Branch of the Rehabilitation Services Administration, Department of Health, Education and Welfare on February 15 from 7:30-8:30 p.m. in Hall Memorial Building, room 213.... If you have an opportunity, stop by and see Betty Miller's exhibit, "The Silent World," which will be in the Washburn Art Center until February 25.... During 1971 over 2,800 guests were entertained at dinners, luncheons, receptions and teas at the Edward Miner Gallaudet Home. Groups ranged from a small party of four for dinner to 650 students for a Christmas season reception.

CAPTIONED TV TO BE DEMONSTRATED

On February 15, Gallaudet College will host representatives from the National Bureau of Standards; the Federal Communications Commission; the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; the Department of Commerce; the television industry and the press at a demonstration of a simple, inexpensive method of captioning television broadcasts. The special program will feature a captioned presentation of ABC's regularly scheduled broadcast of "Mod Squad."

As a result of a decoding device developed by the National Bureau of Standards Time and Frequency Division, a hearing impaired viewer will be able to install a small circuit module in his home TV set and receive captioned broadcasts. Since the captions can only be seen if this device is employed, normal viewing will not be disturbed.

National Bureau of Standards engineers estimate that their device, which may be available as early as 1973, would cost the consumer less than $20.

The captions for this special presentation will be provided by the Office of Education, Media and Captioned Films Department, headed by Malcom Norwood, '49.

Students, faculty and staff will be able to see the 7:30 broadcast on any of the closed circuit TV sets throughout the campus.
